Taking Care of the Customer

In this event Jeff Dean will be presenting to us Lutron Electronics Solutions for your Customers

Guest Speaker: Jeff Dean - Northeast Residential Sales Manager at Lutron Electronics.

Over the past 10 years, Jeff has worked closely with all aspects of Lutron's residential business in the Northeast. He has spent the majority of his time specifying Lutron's residential system solutions through close support of Architects, Lighting Designers, Interior Designers, Builders, Developers, Electrical Engineers and others as well as all of Lutron's residential channel partners and representatives. He currently manages Lutron's overall residential business in the Northeast in conjunction with Lutron's local representative agencies. Jeff regularly presents in front various industry associations and local offices in support of Lutron's residential solutions.

Increase Productivity

Most commercial spaces are over-lit, leading to wasted energy usage. But over-lit spaces can also affect the productivity of employees. Too much daylight or electric light can make even the most fundamental tasks, such as computer work, uncomfortable and difficult to perform. By incorporating lighting based on task performance and providing personal control of lighting and shading, commercial spaces can realize measurable effects on employee productivity and motivation. In addition, employees typically dim the lights when given personal control, further increasing energy savings.
